BILLS INTRODUCED FOR NEW STATE NORMAL SCHOOLS

The Situation at Frankfort as to the Proposed Institutions.

Senator Brig Harp and Representatives Mrs. Flannery, Dr. R. C. Moore, Fred Vanhous, W. S. Wallen, and other Big Sandy members of the Legislature are now supporting the bill introduced in the Senate by Mr. Harp providing for a State Normal School to be established in Eastern Kentucky and one in Western Kentucky.

In the House the same bill was introduced by a Western Kentucky man. The only cost to the State is $30,000 per year for each school, which is a very insignificant item out of $17,000,000 spent annually by Kentucky. The fact that the buildings and grounds will be donated to the State for these two important institutions makes this a proposition that the Legislature can not afford to turn down. There is no disposition to reject it except on the ground of economy in appropriations. There are scores of other places where saving can be effected, but this proposition is different from any other. It will stand the test as a plain business offer, or as a move to help raise Kentucky from her position near the bottom of the list in educational matters.

Bills to name any certain city or town as the location for this school will not get very far in this Legislature. The selection of the most suitable site will come later at the hands of an educational commission. The first thing to do is to get the bill through providing for the establishment of these two schools. Any of our readers who know members of the General Assembly should write and urge their enthusiastic support.

State Superintendent George Colvin writes to Mr. Augustus Snyder, President of the Board of Trade, that he has specific promise of a sufficient amount of money from sources outside the State to build these two schools. No condition is imposed upon any community, but the community getting the school would, of course, be expected to do something for it.

Fess Whitaker Again Jailed in Letcher

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 18.—Fess Whitaker, former Jailor and County Judge of Letcher county, was sentenced to serve thirty days in jail and to pay a fine of $50 in Letcher Circuit Court Tuesday, according to word brought to Lexington today.

Judge J. E. Childers, who went into office January 1, is conducting his first term of Circuit Court and, according to Chief Fields, those convicted of bootlegging moonshining or violating other provisions of the State prohibition law are being handed stiff sentences. Fines ranged from $50 to $300, with jail sentences of thirty to ninety days, in most of a score or more of cases heard up to Tuesday night, Mr. Fields said.

Fess Whitaker was elected to fill an unexpired term as County Judge while he was serving a jail sentence for turning himself out of jail after he had been locked in his own jail on a misdemeanor charge. He was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Sam Collins, now State Prohibition Director, and held the office until January 1.

The whiskey violation is alleged to have taken place while he was serving as County Judge. The specific charge was possessing and transporting whiskey for the purpose of illegal sale. Motion for a new trial was overruled by Judge Childers.

Both Chief Fields and Director Collins expressed themselves as being highly pleased with the example Circuit Judge Childers has set in handling liquor cases in the State Courts.

Wants Each Family to Have "Free Dog"

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 12.—The return of the "free family dog" is advocated in a bill to be introduced by Representative J. B. Wicker of Eackey. According to the provisions of Mr. Wicker's bill he allows each family "one dog free," and all over 4 months old shall be listed by the owner with the County Tax Commissioner. The bill provides for a license tax of $5 on all dogs with the exception of the family "pup." "All the kiddies like to have a little puppy, and we have to do something for them," said Mr. Wicker in speaking of his bill.

BETSEY ROSS LODGE INSTALLS OFFICERS

Betsy Ross Rebekah Lodge No. 95, met in Louisa January 10. It was a very interesting meeting. ### LOUISA JUNIOR'S SEWING CLASS.

There will be a meeting of the Junior Agricultural Club members of Louisa at the M. E. Church in Louisa, either Thursday or Friday of next week, the day and hour to be announced later, in next week's paper, for the purpose of organizing a girls' sewing class.

Mrs. Chesep has very kindly consented to take charge of the class and to go through the year with it and we have been fortunate in securing Miss Irens Piedalue, field agent in clothing, of the College of Agriculture who will be here to assist in the organization and outline the work for us.

This is to meet the request of several girls who want to attend the camp this summer and who have joined the club to do some kind of work. We shall be glad to have any girl join who lives near enough to town to attend these meetings and who is over ten and under eighteen years of age.

If you intend to become a member watch for this meeting and be present so as to help elect your officers and do other necessary things to organization.

Yours truly,

G. C. BAKER, County Agent.

KILLED IN MINES.

Conway Howell was instantly killed when he came in contact with a high voltage electric wire in the mines of the Howard Colliers Co., at Chatartoy, W. Va., late Saturday.

Howell, a miner, was 21 years old, and his home at the time of his death was Berwind.

He came to West Virginia from Tennessee and had worked in the mines since his arrival there.

DR. W. H. BURGESS BETTER.

The Williamson News says:—Dr. W. H. Burgess of Williamson, W. Va., who went to the Martin sanitarium, Martinsville, Ind., recently to take treatment for neuritis, is improving rapidly according to word received from Mrs. Burgess by friends in Williamson. Dr. Burgess was ill for two weeks before leaving the city a week ago. He is a brother of Dr. T. D. Burgess of Louisa.

Captured Two Stills in Boyd County

The Federal agent, J. H. Murphy, of Inea, J. M. Blitter of Pikeville and Chris Schott of Newport, captured two large stills in Boyd county, fifteen and nineteen miles out of Ashland on January 14. They destroyed 2500 gallons of corn mash at these two stills.

CHANGE OF VENUE FOR KEENEY AND MOONEY

Logan, W. Va., Jan. 18.—Transfer for trial in Jefferson county of the cases of more than one hundred men indicted here on various charges arising from the march and fighting in Boone and Logan counties last August, and admission of many of the defendants to bail occupied today's session of the circuit court here. C. Frank Keene, district president of the United Mine Workers, and Fred Mooney, district secretary, were released after providing sureties on bonds of $15,000 each and William Blizard, president of a sub-district, on bail of $20,000.

MRS. W. C. CONDIT DIES AT ASHLAND

Ashland, Ky., Jan. 12.—Mrs. W. C. Condit, wife of the Rev. Dr. W. C. Condit, who was pastor of the First Presbyterian church here for fifty-six years, died today after a prolonged illness. She is survived by her husband and three daughters: Mrs. Oscar Henthorne, Miss Mary Ford Condit, both of Ashland, and Mrs. Lucien Waggoner of Danville.

BAPTIST REVIVAL CLOSED.

The revival meeting at the Baptist church closed Sunday night. Much good was accomplished by this series of meetings which began January 1. The services were well attended. Rev. Simpson, pastor of the church, did the preaching and was assisted in the services by Mr. Sam Elsey, singer.

DEATH OF COLORED WOMAN.

Mrs. Lettie Botts, formerly wife of Joe Botts, the aged barber of Louisa, died here Wednesday night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Garred. She was near 70 years old. For a number of years she has lived in Ashland.

OIL SURVEY OF U. S. COMPLETED

9,000,000,000 Barrels Still to Be Found; 175,000,000 In This Area.

Washington, Jan. 17.—Nine billion barrels of oil recoverable by methods now in use remained in the ground in the United States January 1 this year, according to an inventory estimate made public today as a result of the review of the producing, probable and possible oil-bearing regions by a joint committee composed of members of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists and of the United States Geological Survey.

Of this total 5,000,000,000 barrels may be classified as oil in sight and 4,000,000,000 barrels as prospective and possible.

The estimates are, on the whole the best that have ever been made for the United States and better than have heretofore been prepared for any oil country or district of the world according to the committee.

Oil Industry Faces Long Life.

The report characterizes as "absolutely misleading" the frequent assumption that, inasmuch as the estimated reserves appear to be sufficient to meet the needs of the country at the present rate of consumption for twenty years, therefore, the reserves will be exhausted at the end of that time or, at most, a few years later.

"This assumption is absolutely misleading," the report reads, "for the oil pools will not all be found within that length of time; drilling will be spread over many years as the pools are found and the wells cannot be pumped dry so quickly."

"Individual wells will yield oil for more than a quarter of a century and some of the wells will not have been drilled in 1920. In short, the oil cannot all be discovered, much less taken from the earth in twenty years."

"The United States is absolutely dependent on foreign countries to take out her own production, and if the foreign oil can be procured this dependence is sure to grow greater and greater as our own fields wane, except as artificial petroleum may be produced by the distillation of oil shales and coals or some substitute for petroleum may be discovered."

175,000,000 Barrels in This Zone.

The region including Kentucky, Tennessee, Northern Alabama and Northeastern Mississippi is estimated to contain 175,000,000 barrels.

Third Lyceum Number New England Quartet

The third number of the Lyceum course will be given in Louisa at the Garden Theater on Thursday evening, January 26 when the New England Male Quartet of Boston, Mass., will be the entertainers of the evening. This quartet makes its appeal primarily to lovers of good music, yet does not overlook the necessity for variety of interest in order to hold the attention of an audience. Each of the men has an excellent singing voice and three of them are pianists. The program is varied.

WAYNE COUNTY WOMAN DIES IN CHURCH

Mrs. Sarah Parsons of Nestlow, Wayne county, died suddenly of heart failure in the Rad River church Saturday evening. She had been in good health up to the time of the stroke.

She was an active worker in the church and took a leading part in the services Saturday. Toward the last she made an appeal to those not members of the church, imploring them to become Christians. When she sat down she gasped for breath and never spoke another word, death being instantaneous.

Mrs. Parsons is survived by her husband, A. C. Parsons, and the following children: Charles, Chester, Clarence, Jennings, Cora, Ethel, Lella, Bessie and Nola Parsons.—Wayne County News.

TWO FIRES AT BEAVER.

Two buildings the property of J. C. Bailey, located near the C. & O. depot at Beaver creek, burned Monday afternoon, entailing a loss of $5,000. The fire is said to have started from a lighting plant in a barber shop, located in one of the buildings, and the blaze quickly spread to the other building. Both buildings were used for commercial purposes.

About 7:30 that night, a restaurant and pool room and store room of the Long Fork Supply Company, located at Martin, Floyd county, were destroyed by fire. The blaze originated in the kitchen flue of the restaurant. The buildings were the property of Lee Preeton. The loss is not known.

FORT GAY MAN DIES.

Finley Thompson died at his home at Fort Gay a few days ago, after an illness of two months. Burial took place at Jodi's branch. His wife and seven children survive. He was a member of the M. E. Church South, and funeral services were conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Blankenship, assisted by Rev. Crabtree.

MOVED TO ASHLAND.

Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Adams moved Tuesday of this week to Ashland where he recently bought an interest in a wholesale merchandising business.

BIRTHDAY PARTY AT BUCHANAN

In honor of Mrs. J. F. Hatten a number of relatives were invited to spend the day at the Hatten home at Buchanan last Sunday. It was a surprise planned and carried out successfully by her daughters, Mrs. F. T. D. Wallace, Jr., of Ashland and Miss Lizzie Hatten. Several guests were present on this occasion which was to celebrate the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Hatten. A pleasant day was spent and an elegant dinner was enjoyed. The birthday cake on which 71 candles were placed was baked by Mrs. Hatten's grand-daughter, Miss Mary Wallace.

Among the guests from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Preston of Louisa, Mrs. Ethel Hinkle and children of Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Wheeler of Painville, D. Syck and J. Walters and daughter of Pikeville and F. T. D. Wallace, Jr., and family of Louisa and Ashland.

BUYS PROPERTY.

Charles B. Wellman has purchased from the Junior Order the first floor of the building on the corner of Pike street and Lock avenue which has been used for some time by the congregation of the Christian church. He expects to move his grocery store to this location later on. The church will continue to hold services there until their handsome new building on Madison street is ready to occupy. The Junior Order held the room some time ago to the Christian church and recently bought it back.

Among the third-class Kentucky vacancies, with the salaries involved are listed as follows, the examinations taking place February 11:

Morehead, $1,900; Praise, $1,200; Russell, $1,900; Salt Lick, $1,500.

MISS BURDETTE AND MR. WELLMAN WED

Louisa Gains a Charming Addition to her Young Married Set.

The marriage of Miss Lola Florence Burdette of Hurricane, W. Va., and Mr. Edward Lawrence Wellman, of Louisa, was solemnized at half after three o'clock on Friday, January 13, at the Johnson Memorial church in Huntington, W. Va. The words of the beautiful ring ceremony uniting the couple were impressively spoken by Dr. John S. Jenkins, pastor of that church in the presence of a few intimate friends. The attendants were Miss Eva Pownall of Cincinnati, and Miss Audra McGhee, of Charleston, W. Va., and Mr. E. K. Spencer of Louisa, Ky., who acted as best man. Although rather quietly solemnized the wedding was a beautiful one.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Burdette of Hurricane. She is a graduate of Morris Harvey College, and was a student of Marcellus Thalberg at the Conservatory of Music in Cincinnati. She is a talented and accomplished musician and artist, her specialty in art work being china painting. Her bridal costume was a very becoming suit of dark blue velvet with accessories to match. She is a beautiful young woman who by her charming manner has won many friends while visiting here and will be a most welcome addition to Louisa society.

The groom holds the responsible position of cashier and chief clerk with the C. & O. railway company in Louisa. He has spent most of his life here, but for a short time he was in Pikeville with the same company. He enlisted in the radio signal service in the World war and after the close of the war resumed his work with the railway company at this place. He is one of our most popular and energetic young men. He is a Shriner, being a member of El Hasa Temple at Ashland. He is the youngest son of Mrs. Lizzie Wellman-Burgess and Oliver P. Wellman, deceased.

Mrs. Wellman's father is a prominent business man of Hurricane and Putnam county. He is president of the Hurricane National Bank of that place and a tobacco broker.

Mr. and Mrs. Wellman arrived in Louisa Sunday evening and later will leave for a honeymoon of several weeks to be spent in New York and other eastern points. They are now at home here in their attractive bungalow on Lock avenue which is being re-finished and decorated and newly furnished.

Louisa friends are wishing for them a long life of happiness and prosperity.

CHANGE IN MERCANTILE FIRM.

Mr. B. H. Cooksey has bought the interest of I. B. Cooksey in the store of Cooksey Bros., at Louisa and has moved his family to this place. They are occupying the house recently vacated by Fred Dixon. B. H. is another brother of I. B. Cooksey, so the firm remains Cooksey Bros.

Who Wants to Become Mrs. James Dooley?

Content Restricted to Kentucky Women, 18 to 35, Specialists at Charley, Lawrence County, Preferred.

January 11, 1922.

A few lines to unmarried women in Kentucky:—I am a man age 38, and weight 155. My wife died last August and left me with some nice, bright little children and we need a nice, little mother over them. We don't expect an angel, but we want some one that expects to make an angel for we have a christian home and want it to remain the same. My income is from $4.00 to $12.00 per day, that is plenty for a large family and have all they need it matters not who thinks they beg to get a letter from every hard working woman that would love to have a comfortable home and a man for a husband that knows what a good woman is.

Yours truly,
JAMES DOOLEY,
R. 5, London, Ohio.

Address all letters to James Dooley. (The columns of the Big Sandy News are open for answers to the above.)

Good Oil Well in Floyd County

HENRY C. HUBBARD KILLED BY TRAIN

The body of Henry C. Hubbard, 21 years old, who was killed Tuesday in the Pennsylvania railroad yards at Conway, Pa., was taken to White House, Ky., for interment in the family burial lot there.

Hubbard, a railroad conductor for the Pennsylvania, served in France with the American forces. He is survived by Mrs. Ella Sarten of Ethel, W. Va., his mother, and the following brothers and sisters, Ralph S. Hubbard, of Huntington; George Hubbard, U. S. Navy, and Miss Nellie Hubbard, of Ethel, W. Va.

Funeral services were conducted Thursday at White House.

REV. D. G. COMBS DIES.

The Rev. D. G. Combs, 88 years old, an evangelist of the Christian church for more than half a century died last Monday at his home at Mt. Sterling of heart disease. His widow and four daughters are the surviving members of the family.

Rev. Combs had been in Louisa several times and conducted services in the Christian church. His last visit to this place was only a few months ago.

FELL FROM FREIGHT TRAIN.

Jamea Litchoe will die it is believed as the result of injuries received when he jumped or fell from a freight train near Chatartoy, W. Va.

He is at the Williamson hospital with a crushed skull and a fractured and dislocated hip.

Litchoe, who is about 20 years old, was riding a Norfolk & Western train from his home at Hatfield, it is said.

Litchoe was well known in Hatfield and vicinity where he has lived since his boyhood.—Williamson News.

BASKET BALL GAME.

The Louisa Basket Ball team defeated the Ceredo, W. Va., team in the game played at the armory at this place last Monday evening. The score was 13 to 6.

MAYO TRAIL OUT OF DREAM CLASS

Mountain Highway, Long Vision of East Kentucky Folk, Ready in Two Years.

Pineville, Ky., Jan. 14.—If plans of the Road Department work out, this summer will see the Ashland-to-Pineville highway, for many years the dream of those who believe in Eastern Kentucky, well on its way, though it may take two years more for the road to be opened to traffic all year round.

If these plans mature, the Mayo trail, to reach only to Whitesburg, according to original intentions, will extend through Harlan to Pineville, and connect with the Dixie highway leading south through Middleboro, Knoxville, Atlanta and on to Florida.

H. H. Asher, member of the State Highway Commission, asked the Fiscal Court this week to grant a small appropriation to survey the Bell county right-of-way from Page, the end of the present hard-surfaced road to the Harlan county line.

Much Work Completed.

While Bell county may be doing its preliminary work of the Page-Harlan line stretch, sixteen miles long, Harlan will be putting in her busiest summer at road work this year. The grade from the Bell county line to Harlan town already has been surveyed and bids for grading and draining probably will be let late this winter so work can be commenced as soon as spring opens.

While the State Department is preparing specifications and final details incidental to the letting of this contract the division engineers' office here is working on plans for the Harlan county portion of the Harlan-Whitesburg road. The surveying already has been done on this stretch of road, about twenty-seven and three-tenths miles and it is probable that bids for the grading and draining can be asked for this spring. The remaining stretch from the Harlan line to Whitesburg, sixteen miles, is still unprovided for.

Two Routes Available.

The Harlan-Whitesburg road will go up Poor Fork, through the town of Poor Fork; then it will swing to the north with two routes available, one through Skutumpah and one on up Poor Fork, crossing the Cumberland Mountains into Letcher county.

With more work in sight up the Harlan route, Steve Watkins, division engineer here, says that the bridge at Stinking creek and Turkey creek on the Pineville-Barbourville road, will be ready for local traffic probably in a month with the road in condition to handle through traffic as soon as winter is gone and the dirt roads dry.

Steel work has been completed on the bridges and the flooring is being laid now. These two bridges span the almost impassable places on the Pineville-Barbourville road, and although it will be late summer before any surfacing can be done, the road will be easily passable except immediately after a heavy rain.—Courier-Journal.

A LOST DOG.

Glenbays, W. Va., Jan. 9, 1922.
Mr. M. F. Conley,
Louisa, Kentucky

Dear Mr. Conley:—A small black and white spotted dog, with a big brass studded collar came to my house last Monday. I am trying to find its owner and am told it went through this valley with some cattle drovers some time ago and that one of these men is a Frank Stafford. Do you know of any such man? He is supposed to live back of Ft. Gay. Can you ask about this man among some of your cattle men in Louisa and if you cannot find out the owner of this dog and do not hear from me in the mean time, please drop me a "lost dog" notice from the above facts, telling the owner to communicate with me, and put it in your next issue of the Big Sandy News.

The pup in question is one of the smartest little devils I have ever seen, but I have all the dogs and cats and other animals my Noah's Ark of a house can take care of.

Yours truly,
CHAS. C. MACKUBIN.

TEST WELL FOR OIL IN WAYNE COUNTY

The Wayne News says:—The drilling for oil on the W. B. Smith farm on Whites creek is a failure unless one or two more charges of nitro-glycerin brings a flow of oil in paying quantities, according to Thompson Brothers, of Wayne, the drilling contractors.

At a depth of about 1900 feet a small amount of oil was found. Twenty quarts of explosive produced but little better showing. Forty quarts were then used, and several barrels of oil was produced, but the flow is not great enough, as yet to be of commercial value.

While this well may prove to be a dry hole the indications are favorable because of the fact that the Brown sand here shows oil.

VISITED IN WILLIAMSON.

Mr. Johnson Hatfield, formerly a well known citizen of this county, was here Thursday visiting his grandsons, Jerry and Ralph Maynard while en route to his home in Ft. Gay after a visit with his daughter, Mrs. Lee Maynard of Spring. Mr. Hatfield, although nearly 80 years old is active and in good health. Miss Hatfield can.

Missouri Lady Suffered Until She Tried Cardui.—Says "Result Was Surprising."—Got Along Fine, Became Normal and Healthy.

Springfield Mo.—"My back was so weak I could hardly stand up, and I would have bearing-down pains and was not well at any time," says Mrs. D. V. Williams, wife of a well-known farmer on Route 6, this place. "I kept getting headaches and having to go to bed," continues Mrs. Williams describing the troubles from which she obtained relief through the use of Cardui. "My husband, having heard of Cardui, proposed getting it for me. I saw after taking some Cardui that I was improving. The result was surprising. I felt like a different person."

"Later I suffered from weakness and weak back, and felt all run-down. I did not rest well at night, I was so nervous and cross. My husband said he would get me some Cardui, which he did. It strengthened me. I was in good healthy condition. I cannot say too much for it."

Thousands of women have suffered as Mrs. Williams describes, until they found relief from the use of Cardui. Since it has helped so many, you should not hesitate to try Cardui if troubled with womanly ailments.

ADELINE

There was church here last Sunday morning. Preaching by Rev. J. H. Cleveland, who delivered a wonderful sermon. His subject and text was taken from 5th verse of the 42d chapter of the book of Job. Subject was Job's self righteousness. "I have heard of thee by the hearing of the ear; but now mine eye seeth thee." There was quite a large crowd out to hear him, but not half that ought to have been.

But folks that don't believe in the truth and want to hear it had better stay away for that is what they are going to hear when Bro. Cleveland gets in the pulpit.

A number of Bear creek folks attended church here Sunday.

Johnie Robinson has returned to her home on Whites creek after spending last week with her mother, Mrs. Wm. Bellomy.

Quite a number of folks was visiting Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bellomy, including his daughter, Mrs. Fred Miller, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gilling.

DEEP HOLE

In remembrance of Belva Dean Burchett, born March 7, 1903, and died November 21, 1921.

Once we had a fragrant blossom.

Full of sweetness, full of love,

But the angels came and called her.

For the beautiful realms above.

Tearfully we lowly laid her.

Neath the sod that grew so green.

And the form of our dear Belva.

In our home no more we'll see.

Two months have passed, and still we miss her.

And our hearts still throb with pain.

When we think of our dear Belva.

Whom on earth no more we'll see.

Oh, dear Belva when we meet thee.

In the joyous realms above.

Gladly will we haste to greet thee.

All our hearts aflame with love.

Dear Belva was our darling.

Pride of all the hearts at home.

But the angels came singing sweetly and whispered, "Belva come."

HUL-TTE

On January 5 this community was profoundly shocked when Wm. O'Daniel received a message from Portsmouth, Ohio, that his brother-in-law, Rev. A. J. Frazier had dropped dead the night before.

While Mr. Frazier had not had very good health for a number of years, he had seemed to be better this fall and winter than usual. On January 4 he cut and hauled some fire wood and did his chores about the place. That evening he told his wife what he wanted for his supper. She prepared it for him and they had just eaten supper and were sitting by the fire. Mrs. Frazier went out through the dining room into the kitchen for something. Just as she reached the kitchen she heard him fall. She ran in and he had fallen out of his chair and before she could summons a neighbor, who lived in calling distance he had expired.

Rev. Frazier was about 74 years of age and had lived all his life in Lawrence county, Ky., until about 18 years ago when he moved to Portsmouth and lived there for a number of years. He then bought a farm over in Greenup county and moved to it and lived there until his death. He married Victoria Jarrell, daughter of Hiram and Rosannah Jarrell and they had lived together for about 50 years. They had 12 children, all of whom lived to be grown except two who died when quite young and five died after they were grown. Esther and Caroline, who died in infancy and Mrs. Maggie Nunley and Mrs. Rosannah Evans and Jefferson Frazier are buried in the Harmon cemetery at this place. Mrs. Nora Rice is hurried at Yatesville and Elbert Frazier, who died about two years ago is buried in Greenup county on the home place.

Besides the widow five children survive: James Kay and Oliver Frazier of Portsmouth, Ohio, and Mrs. Pearl Kelly and Charley Frazier of Lottia, Ky. He leaves a host of friends and relatives to mourn their loss, but we mourn not as those that have no hope. He has fought his last battle and won the victory and today he is basking in the sunlight of God's eternal love with his loved ones gone on before.

If we will only live as he has told us he wanted us to live, some sweet day we will meet him where there will be no more tears shed and no more parting.

All that was mortal of Rev. Frazier sleeps beneath a little mound down in Greenup county. His funeral will be preached this summer some time at the church house near where he is buried.

Though he rests from his labors His works do follow him.

The pains of death are past.

Labor and sorrow cease.

And life's long warfare closed at last.

His soul is found in peace.

Soldier of Christ, well done.

Praise be thy new employ.

And while eternal ages run Rest in thy Saviour's joy.

A NIECE.

ACT QUICKLY

Do the right thing at the right time.

Act quickly in time of danger.

In time of kidney danger, Doan's Kidney Pills are most effective. Ask your neighbor.

Plenty of Louisa evidence of their worth.

Mrs. A. Waller, Railroad St., Louisa, says: "I have a very good opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills over since they cured me of an attack of kidney trouble and I gladly recommend them. I had been feeling weak and run down for some time before the attack came on. My eyes began to get swollen and puffy underneath and I would turn quite dizzy, especially when stooping forward. I could see black specks before my eyes and my back kept me in misery. It ached so continually. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, so I sent to the Louisa Drug Store Co. and got two boxes. I used Doan's as directed and they cured me in good shape."

Kermit Police Chief Killed At Tralee

The Mingo Republican, Williamson, W. Va., says:

James Mullet, chief of police of Kermit and one of the best known young men of the county, was killed instantly at Tralee, Wyoming-co., last Sunday morning in a pistol duel with Archer B. Southward, a state policeman, formerly stationed at Kermit.

The tragedy occurred in the club house after Mullet arrived there on a Virginian train from Princeton, Mrs. Mullet, estranged wife of the Kermit officer was in charge of the club house.

Mullet found his wife and Southward in the kitchen washing dishes and opened fire on Southward as he entered the room.

Although a crack shot with a pistol Mullet failed to get his man at once. The first bullet shattered Southward's right arm. Two other bullets went thru his chest and came out at the spine while another penetrated the liver. Although mortally wounded Southward managed to reach his gun with his left hand. His first shot hit Mullet in the mouth causing almost instant death.

Domestic trouble is alleged to have caused the tragedy. Mullet and his wife, who was Marie Virginia Maynard, whose home is said to be in Lawrence-co., were married last August but had not been living together recently. Mrs. Mullet is reported to have stated that she had intended to bring divorce proceedings at once so that she and Southward could be married.

Mrs. Mullet chartered a special train to take Southward to the Princeton hospital. She remained at his bedside until his death and then returned to Tralee.

Mullet was 30 years of age and had been chief of police at Kermit off and on for the past ten years. He first served in that capacity when Lonnie Bray was mayor of the village. He was known as a fearless officer and was generally very highly regarded. Some years ago he shot a boy named Thompson in trying to make an arrest and later was convicted in court here. The verdict was set aside and he never was punished. He was the son of Shade Mullet, who lives two miles west of Kermit, and was reared in Martin and Wayne counties.

Mullet's body reached Kermit Tuesday and the funeral services were held there Wednesday.

Southward was a native of Iowa and had seen service in France. He was transferred from Kermit to Clouthier after having some trouble with Mullet there and had been suspended lately.

FOR SALE:—To the highest bidder, seats in the U. S. Senate.

Over in West Virginia the moonshiners and bootleggers would do well to shut up shop and quit. The United States prohibition department has hired M. E. Keitchum to catch 'em.

Senator A. E. Auxler of Pike has not been to Frankfort since the Legislature opened January 2. He has been in rather poor health for some time and does not feel equal to the task of serving in the Senate. He did valiant service for the mountain section at the session two years ago.

The name of Mrs. Donald Clark, of Westmoreland, has been suggested for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Fifth Congressional district of West Virginia. She is a daughter of Col. S. S. Vinson, deceased, and is a brilliant woman. She would make a great race and if elected would be a capable member of Congress.

The recent slump in the price of oil, amounting to 50 cents per barrel on grades in this territory, is very unwelcome, but not surprising. Conditions are favorable for reductions, as it is impossible to stimulate development during these winter months and there is no other incentive in sight for holding up prices. When spring opens we may hope for sufficient increase to cause a resumption of drilling.

Will Hayes, Postmaster General, has resigned from Harding's cabinet to take a moving picture job at $150,000 per year. The President has issued a statement saying that while he hates to give Bill up he is doing so because the movie job offers a "greater opportunity for helpful public service." We are foolish enough to feel that the President is holding out something on the public when he flashes this statement on the screen and fails to show that beautiful salary. It is not the fashion in movie circles to leave anything to the imagination; and as a newspaper man Mr. Harding has overlooked the most appealing feature in this human interest story.

Big Sandy people believe that Ashland should not contend for the proposed Northeast Kentucky State Normal School. Ashland is soliciting the business of the Big Sandy valley in a general way and in a larger measure and should not become our rival for a school that has been intended and announced all along by its promoters to be located in the Big Sandy valley. Such an institution would mean ten times as much to any Big Sandy town as it would to Ashland. We suggest that the leading business men of that city think this matter over and decide whether or not it will be advisable to enter into this contest.

Those who are looking for evidence to prove that the standard of the United States Senate is becoming lower will find in the seating of Newberry a very conclusive piece of proof. The Senate of a few years ago denied Lorimer and Stephenson the seats gained by means not any worse than Newberry employed, to say the least. The Senate of today by a majority of 46 to 41 voted a purchased seat to the man sentenced to the penitentiary for the crime by the courts of his home state and freed by the United States Supreme Court on a technicality. The seat cost $200,000 or more. Is it probable that the man occupying such a seat will legislate for the best interests of the people?

Senator Sutherland of West Virginia was one of the glib Republicans who voted against Newberry. Senator Ernst was one of the 46.

The road bond issue for Kentucky is a proposition that everybody can and should support. It is a bond issue that costs the people not a cent more than they are now paying annually into the road fund. Expert bond men, called into consultation with the State Road department, have found that an issue of fifty million dollars can be retired with the present road income and maintain all the roads that now exist and the new roads to be built. We all know that the automobiles will greatly increase as we improve the roads and the tax on these machines will add much to the fund; then the natural growth of general values will increase the revenue; but these two features are left out of the calculation. The fifty millions are to be issued in five annual installments of ten millions each. It is estimated that the road department could in this way complete the system of primary roads for the state, giving every county a hard road. One of the most important features of the proposal is the early completion of the entire system, so that the present generation will get the benefits of good roads and they will be maintained for future generations out of the funds provided in the plan.

If we fail to adopt such a plan there will not be anything like the same amount of roads built in thirty years and the people will have paid the same amount of taxes. It is a plain business proposition that is easy to understand.

The present Legislature can only give the people a chance to vote on such a bond issue. If authorized the vote will be taken next November. Its adoption will mean a leap forward such as Kentucky has never before taken.

THE WOODROW WILSON FOUNDATION

A Tribute to a Great American by His Admirers.

"Do you covet distinction? You will never get it by serving yourself. Do you covet honor? You will get it only as a servant of mankind."

Woodrow Wilson's Address at Swarthmore College, Oct. 5, 1913.

The world is poorer for the men and wealth that were poured into the furnace of war. It is richer for the regenerated spirit of idealism that burnishes the record of four terrible years and the leader of that spiritual force which enlisted the hopes of mankind was an American—Woodrow Wilson.

Woodrow Wilson saw beyond the momentous conflict of his day and made clear to men certain ideals of world relationship that helped them to prosecute the ugly business of war until victory rested with the peoples of democracy. Plain men, the men in the ranks, had begun to believe that the world had come to a pass where living was beyond endurance; yet they felt, vaguely maybe, that they were fighting and dying to establish some principle of human freedom which would in effect constitute a rebirth of civilization. It remained for the American to become their highly articulate spokesman. By word and deed he clarified the issue so that all the world could see it as a struggle between democracy and autocracy.

Those years are rapidly receding into the background. Woodrow Wilson has passed from the political stage. Much that he set out to do is still undone. Some believe that he failed utterly. But the number grows, and will continue to grow, of those who see through the confusion of conflicting opinion to the epic fight of an American for a great American ideal—for democracy and human freedom.

Any student of Mr. Wilson's life, any undertaking related to him, must come to consider this question: What is the motive that actuated him in his public life? His ideals have been published to the world; but what is the source from which they came? The answer seems to be found in those prophetic words uttered early in his first term as President of the United States. "Do you covet distinction? You will never get it by serving yourself. Do you covet honor? You will get it only as a servant of mankind."

The Foundation created in his name can find no better watchwords.

Origin of The Foundation.

On Christmas Eve, 1920, a group of women met to consider what was then a nebulous wish to pay some sort of a tribute to the man who was shortly to leave the White House. There was no doubt in their minds as to the verdict of history; rather the thought was to establish a precedent, if possible, and honor a great American while he lived. Great men had seldom been so honored. Indeed, it was the fairly well established custom to saddle their lives with abuse and make amendments later.

The materialized idea of a tribute of some sort was discussed among the women and then presented to a group of men, friends of Mr. Wilson and former members of his official family. Finally, within two weeks after Mr. Wilson had become a private citizen, there was a great winter's day meeting at a New York hotel where the wish became a fact, where the nebulous desire to honor him while he lived became the very real plan to create the Woodrow Wilson Foundation.

America's Own Nobel Prizes.

The materialized idea has been developed far beyond the thought of a tribute to the former President. It is to be that, of course, but chiefly it is to perpetuate his ideal of democracy and human freedom, and in such form as to be both an inspiration and a reward to other men whose ambition it is to "enable the world to live more amply, with greater vision, with a finer spirit of hope and achievement."

The Foundation is to be, in words now widely familiar: "Created in recognition of the national and international services of Woodrow Wilson, twice President of the United States, who furthered the cause of human freedom and was instrumental in pointing out effective methods for the cooperation of the liberal forces of mankind throughout the world."

The Award or Awards from the income of the Foundation will be made from time to time by a nationally constituted committee to the individual or group that has rendered within a specific period, meritorious service to democracy, public welfare, liberal thought or peace through justice."

In brief, America is to have its own Nobel Prizes.

Where The Awards Will Come From.

Conceived on a propitious day, the movement to establish the Woodrow Wilson Foundation has become nationwide in the months that have passed since Christmas, 1920. A national organization has been created, with representation in every state, to raise the permanent endowment that is to make possible America's awards for distinguished public service.

The method of raising the endowment will not be the familiar "drive" of war time; the appeal which will be issued beginning January 16, 1922, will be framed rather in the spirit of a free-will offering. Drive methods will not be necessary. It is believed, to rally Americans to the support of an American institution, created in honor of a great American, dedicated to the perpetuation of American ideals. The organization has been developed on a national scale simply to present to as many people as possible the opportunity to share in the founding of an institution that will play a significant part in the world's progress toward a higher civilization.

The goal is one million dollars or more. One million dollars represents a gift of one cent from each inhabitant of the United States, and an endowment so widely subscribed is the ideal at least toward which the energies of the Foundation organization are directed. Woodrow Wilson was the spokesman for the liberal thought of the world, but for America particularly. His ideals are American ideals. His principles of democracy and human freedom are the principles upon which the republic is founded. It seems fitting that this undertaking should be created by the free-will offering of a very large proportion of the inhabitants of the United States. A Foundation so created is the objective.

The founding of an institution which is to be a significant demonstration of America's belief in idealism is an historical occasion, and to be commemorated as such. An emblem has been adopted which will permanently represent the spirit of the Foundation. The central feature of the emblem is a portrait of Woodrow Wilson.

A number of reproductions of this emblem have been struck off in the form of certificates to be presented to subscribers to the endowment. They will mark the recipient as one of the founders and they will be treasured for their artistic value as well as their historical significance.

How The Awards Will Be Administered.

It is the present purpose of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation to raise the endowment. When that has been done a board of trustees composed of eminent Americans will be appointed and entrusted with the administration of the fund and the granting of the awards for "meritorious service to democracy, public welfare, liberal thought or peace through justice."

No attempt has been made at this time to settle the question of the permanent home of the Foundation, specific kind of public service to be awarded or other matters concerning its future course. The present organization has considered its task to be the creation of the Foundation through the widespread support of the nation, leaving the board of trustees to determine the policies with which they will be vitally concerned.

Stealing A March Upon History.

Maximilian Harden has said of the war and its aftermath: "Only one conqueror's work will endure—Wilson's thought."

Wilson's thought and work were for the voiceless mass of men who, merely go about their daily tasks, try to be honorable, try to serve the people they love, try to live worthy of the great communities to which they belong. Upon that fundamental ideal all his public acts were premised. He was a servant of mankind. History will so reward him—but in the meantime the Woodrow Wilson Foundation offers an opportunity to steal a march upon history.

Liquors valued at $250,000 have been found in the home of Senator Penrose, of Philadelphia who died recently. In late years the physicians "sentenced" him to a limit of three drops per day. Think of the torture of such a restriction to a man who liked liquor well enough to lay in a stock of that extent.

The discussions of State affairs at Frankfort bring to mind the fact that the two grand and glorious dreams of taking offices out of politics and inventing a perpetual motion machine "can not be done."

The "Halo Me" fellow on the Herald-Dispatch is puzzled: "Why does a big black crow sit all day long in a tree in front of the Fan-American Building whenever the sessions of the arms conference are held inside?"

That's easy. The Fates have sent it for Henry Gabby Lodge.

Col. Jay H. Northup has returned from Cleveland, Ohio, where he spent several days with his grandson, Jay Northup Wood. Miss Herma Northup who accompanied him remained there.

EARLY AMERICAN FURNITURE

By "Early American" we mean those quaint forms of maple, pine and cherry that were made in Connecticut, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania before the year 1700. Such pieces as butterfly and tavern tables, odd chairs — things that are a part of our own traditions as Americans. We urge the lovers of this type of furniture to come in and see these quaint pieces.

The Butterfly Centre Table. A true Colonial butterfly table of maple, cherry or pine, brings unheard-of prices today. The model we are showing is a faithful copy of a famous original, and one of the choicest in point of turnings and proportions that we have ever seen. Its name is derived from the butterfly-shaped wings that support its drop leaves. The hand dove-tailed, key-shaped drawer softened edges and mellow finish are most delightful. The limited production of this carefully fashioned table makes it as valuable to the true connoisseur of rare pieces, as though it were an old fragment restored to order.

Spread-Leg Tables. This model is fashioned after an old table made in Connecticut in 1690, and would be indeed difficult to tell from the original. It is a treasure from the collector's point of view — one that will be a treasured possession which grows more valuable with the passing of time. —third floor.

FORMER KENTUCKIAN WRITES FROM SANTANA, KANSAS

Dear Editor:—As it has been several years since I have written anything for the NEWS I will write a few lines for the benefit of the writer at Dennis, Ky. In last week's issue it seems as these parties don't know or realize that this item would ever reach Kansas through the columns of the Big Sandy News, but it did and it is a falsehood. It stated that John Rose of Kansas is expected to visit friends at that place soon. I will say to the writer of Dennis that John Rose is here at my home in Kansas and says that he don't expect to return to Kentucky for at least three years and that he don't want the people at home or anywhere else in Kentucky to think that he would even think of coming home so soon. He is well satisfied and has come to Kansas to make his future home and he says if there was other Kentuckians who would come to Kansas there would be less floating news over the country.

We would appreciate it very much if Kentucky would send some of her big rains out this way that I have been reading about. Kansas has gone dry and gone dry right, only light rains since in September, 1921 and we are needing rain on the big wheat crop.

Well, I will close hoping this won't miss the Big Sandy News and hit the wastebasket. Now if we hear of any more such rumors you will hear from Kansas again.

A happy New Year to Big Sandy and all its readers. M. F. ROSE.

APPRECIATES GIFT.

New York, Jan. 16, 1922.
Mr. M. F. Conley,
Big Sandy News,
Louisa, Kentucky.

My Dear Mr. Conley:—I have had a great number of surprises in my life, some very agreeable, some otherwise, but it remained for an old friend, (a Louisian) whom I will not name here, to give me the greatest and most agreeable surprise of my life, by presenting me with one year's subscription to the Big Sandy News. Each issue I read seems like letter from home and awakens in me many pleasant thoughts of the many happy days I spent in dear Louisa among real men and women and urge me like the home sick boy to return. I am longing for you Louisa:
Oh city, by whose sun-kissed side, The river Sandy gently flows,
The home of friends both true and tried,
Whose many acts of kindness shows The stranger that he need not fear
For welcome and a friendly grasp, And he feels indeed that friends are here
And here he makes his home at last. Sincerely yours,
MARTIN MANN.

Auto Death Toll 15,000 in 1921

The number of persons killed in automobile accidents in the United States in 1921 was estimated at between 12,000 and 15,000, probably nearer the higher figure, at a joint meeting of the officers of the public safety section of the National Safety Council and the managers of various local safety councils in Chicago. The estimate was based on a comparison of the 1920 figures with reports already received from several cities and States.

This is an increase of from 1,000 to 4,000 over deaths from auto accidents in 1920, when approximately 11,000 persons were killed. Based on the higher figure, safety officials to-day said that a death from an automobile accident in 1921 occurred on an average of every thirty-five minutes.

Absurdity of Taxing Coal Tonnage 5 Per Cent

The Evening Post has been informed of a bill, prepared for presentation to this Legislature, which proposes a flat tax of 5 per cent upon the sale price of all coal mined in Kentucky.

Let us see how this would work out. The value of the coal mined in Kentucky during the last twelve months, concerning which records are complete was we believe, close to $150,000,000. Of course the coal operators only get a fraction of this, for the cost of production had to come out first. But, applying the 5 per cent tax suggested above, a total of $7,500,000 would have been collected from this "single industry in one year, or about as much as the yield from direct taxation upon all the property in Kentucky.

Obviously this is more than the "traffic can bear." The passage of such a bill would simply close dozens of coal mines in Kentucky, for in many there is not at present a 5 per cent profit upon operation, this placed on top of such local taxes as are levied. And the proposition of a tax upon gross receipts is bad. When taxes of this kind are levied they should be imposed purely on profits; nothing could be worse than taxing a deficit.

And the amount suggested—$7,500,000 annually—is a great deal more than the coal men should be required to pay in addition to what they pay now. They do not pay what they should pay as things stand; of that the Evening Post for one is satisfied. But we stand unalterably against any coal tax so oppressive, in form or in yield, as to cripple the coal industry in the State.

The Evening Post has heretofore stated its belief that the proper way to proceed is to increase the assessments of coal land, refraining from unreasonable "increases." But what would a reasonable increase be? The Evening Post does not know, and, if anyone connected with the State government, whose business it is to know, does know, such person or persons as keeping this information a strict secret. But if an estimate must be made one that would produce additional revenue of $1,000,000 a year from coal would seem much more sensible than the proposed 5 per cent.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

On Monday, February 6, 1922, at 1 p. m., at the front door of the court house, Louisa, Ky. I will offer for sale at public outcry so much of the following land as may be necessary to produce $1372.00. This sale is made under execution issued on sale bond in action of Commonwealth Life Insurance Co., vs. Jeff Collinsworth, and will be for cash only on day of sale. ## RECEIVER'S SALE.

I will, on Saturday, January 21, 1922, at the hour of ten o'clock, a. m., offer for sale, at public outcry, a stock of goods, known as the C. C. Terry stock; and the same will be sold at his store in Louisa, Ky., where the goods are now located, a stock of groceries, valued at $298.79. Said sale will be made for cash in hand, or terms will be made to suit the purchaser; if sold on a credit, the purchaser will be required to give bond with approved security, the bond to draw interest from date until paid.

The above stock of goods will be sold to satisfy an attachment lien debt in favor of Dixon, Moore & Company, Hampton Grocery Company, and Hinton Fruit & Produce Company, which debts amount to $732.66.

Given under my hand, this the 12th day of January, 1922.
J. W. YOUNG, Receiver.

Gunman Makes Attempt on Life of Dr. Vinson

The following is from Monday's Huntington Herald-Dispatch:
An unidentified gunman last night made an attempt to take the life of Dr. Lindsay T. Vinson, former county coroner and a lifelong resident of Huntington, when five revolver shots were fired at him through a window at his residence, 1342 Sixth avenue. Dr. Vinson, reading a magazine, in the library of his residence, had the narrowest possible escape from death. One bullet tore through his left coat sleeve and other knocked a magazine out of his hand, two went through his overcoat and the fifth was found in a feather pillow lying on a davenport in direct line with the doctor. The shooting occurred at 9:45 o'clock and within a few minutes police with bloodhounds arrived on the scene in an effort to trace the man who did the shooting.

Neighbors, attracted by the sound of the shots, told police of seeing a short, heavy-set man, wearing a cap and no overcoat, run from the Vinson yard up Sixth avenue. Bloodhounds followed a similar course and tracked the man to Third avenue and Fourteenth street. They lost the scent at a point on the southwest corner of the avenue near the eastbound car tracks. Police believe the would be assassin caught a Third avenue car at this point and escaped.

No reason could be given by Dr. Vinson for the attempt on his life. He said that he was unaware of having a single enemy in the world and that he was at a loss to account for the cowardly attempt.

Dr. Vinson had returned home some little time before the shooting and had carelessly thrown the overcoat he was wearing across the end of a davenport sitting at an angle in front of the big front window of the library. He then took up a magazine and sat down in the opposite corner of the room under a floor lamp. His chair was facing toward the front of the house and at a slight angle and about twelve feet distant from the window. Mrs. Vinson was sitting on a low chair in front of the fireplace, out of the line of fire. Louise, the little daughter of Dr. Vinson, was asleep in the room back of the library.

Without warning, the first shot sounded. There was a sharp clatter of glass and the first bullet tore through the left sleeve of Dr. Vinson's coat. Before he could realize that he was being fired at by someone outside the window, the other shots followed in quick succession. The second whined angrily as it pierced the magazine which Dr. Vinson was reading. Two more plowed through his overcoat lying on the end of the davenport and imbedded themselves in the wall behind Dr. Vinson's head. The fourth struck the window sash and then a pillow lying on the davenport. The bullet was found by police imbedded in the pillow. It was a .33 calibre bullet.

As quickly as possible Dr. Vinson ran into another room in the house, secured a pistol and ran outside to investigate. The man had fled. Police declare that the man was an excellent shot notwithstanding the fact that he missed his mark. The bullets all struck the window within a radius of four inches, they state. The slight deflection of the first bullet in striking the glass probably saved Dr. Vinson's life, they believe.

"STATE RIGHTS" HIT.

The Supreme Court of the United States handed down two decisions, each of which is a distinct limitation on the asserted right of states to hamper interstate commerce indirectly by state legislation.

Kentucky's law requiring a corporation to register there before doing business, it is held, cannot affect the rights of any company engaged in interstate commerce.

West Virginia's law to mulct outside buyers of oil and natural gas by a privilege tax on the transportation of these by pipe lines is declared void, so far as it affects what goes to other states.

In the latter decision there is particular interest because what figures as a "privilege tax" on West Virginia natural gas and oil figures as a "production tax" on Pennsylvania coal. Most of the anthracite goes outside the state. Citizens of a score of commonwealths help to lift taxes from the shoulders of Pennsylvanians. The prediction that the court of last resort will follow the same ethical reasoning in the Pennsylvania matter may not be correct, but it is exceedingly interesting to the taxpayers of the Keystone State.

A SOLDIER BONUS.

A majority of the members of the United States Senate are reported to have agreed to pass a soldier bonus bill. How the money is to be raised to pay the two to three billions required has not been decided. A sales tax is being considered.

Cards have been received by Louisa friends of the family announcing the arrival of a baby boy on January 13 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Walkenshaw of Caldwell, Ohio. He has been christened George Barry Walkenshaw.

WOMAN SELLS "SHINE" TO REDEEM FARM

Pikeville, Ky., Jan. 12.—Mrs. Denny Vanover, living far back in the mountains, admitted Tuesday that she had three gallons of moonshine for sale, but made the novel plea in court for leniency that she meant to sell the liquor to redeem her farm on the side of the Cumberland which the Sheriff had advertised for sale for taxes.

LIONEL BARRYMORE AND ORIGINAL N. Y. CAST AT CIN. CINNATI WEEK OF JAN. 29

Lionel Barrymore in "The Claw" which comes to the Shubert Theatre, Cincinnati, the week starting Sunday, January 29, secured a real hit in New York City and Boston. Those cities were supposed to like their drama sugar-coated. But Henri Bernstein's play is acrid, even bitter. "The Claw" strikes in to the bone. It is cynical, savage, cruel. It tells the story of the infatuation of a famous man for an intriguing chit of a girl, of how she wheedles and bleeds him of his debase and his eventual destruction. E. F. Harkins in the Boston Advertiser says, "It is one of the most powerful roles in modern drama. The American stage has seen nothing like it since Mansfield was blazing round the country in 'Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde' and 'The Parisian Romance.'"

Here, then, is strong meat, and New York and Boston playgoers passed by the tollposts in favor of this harder fare. This was most disorganizing to the majority of managers who thought they at least had learned what the public wants; and it was correspondingly gratifying to Arthur Hopkins, who produced "The Claw". Manager Rowland of The Shubert Theatre in Cincinnati is giving special attention to out-of-the-city mail orders and out of town patrons will receive the same attention as will purchasers at the ticket window. ## SHE IS "FULL OF PEP" THEY SAY

She is Good-Looking and Gay and is Always Ready For a Good Time.

Why is a girl popular? Look around and see what a good time the good-looking ones have all the time. Men seek them out and ask them to parties, dances and entertainments. And notice that it is not the doll-face type real men like most, but the red-blooded girl with "pep" and happy good nature. Any girl who is tired and languid and has a poor complexion and dull eyes can improve her condition and be far happier if she will simply take Gude's Pepto-Mangan until she has put her blood into good condition. Red blood means "full of life" and "full of life" usually means happiness.

Try Gude's Pepto-Mangan and see how much better you feel. Doctors have used it nearly thirty years for weak, run-down people. It helps them get well. Sold in both liquid and tablet form. Advertisement.

Three Years of Prohibition in the U. S.

Washington, Jan. 14.—The full accomplishments of national prohibition were revealed today by the Federal Prohibition Bureau on the eve of the third birthday of the 18th amendment. This summary of last year's enforcement showed:

Arrests for drunkenness decreased 60 per cent.

Nearly 1,000,000 gallons of liquor were seized.

Thirty thousand criminal prosecutions were begun.

Twenty thousand convictions were obtained.

Property seized totaled nearly $13,000,000.

These major accomplishments cost $6,274,523.47, including office expenditures, salaries and traveling expenses of national agents.

Property seizures reached an approximate value of $12,907,693.40.

About 950,000 gallons of distilled spirits and wines were taken by prohibition agents.

Of the 36,000 criminal prosecutions started, 17,000 defendants pleaded guilty and the total convicted was nearly 30,000. Acquittals totaled less than 1000.

Liquor withdrawals were reduced 50 per cent in the last year.

In the list of property seized from violators of the law were:

Six hundred automobiles, 40 boats, 26 wagons, one airplane, 45 horses and mules, five motorcycles, $7500 in cash, 10 tracts of land, seven stocks of merchandise.

LOUISA, ROUTE 2

The Sunday school is progressing fine.

Bill Rainé of Mill creek and Ida Poris of Saltwater crossed the river with a few of their friends at Lock No. 1 and quietly entered the home of Jake Workman and were married by Rev. William Bartram of Mill creek.

Bill Rainé is a well to do farmer of Mill creek. Mrs. Poris was a widow of Saltwater. They are good people. She is a sister of Mont and Jim See of Louisa, Ky. R. 2.

Wayne Wellman, Jr. and a lot of girls were guests at Jeff Workman's Sunday after Sunday school.

The stork visited Lacey Williamson and left a 10 pound girl. Lacey's head is awful high.

Rev. Sheridan Dobbins preached at Saltwater chapel Sunday to a large congregation. We want him back again.

We had 65 scholars in our Sunday school Sunday besides the visitors.

Mr. Jake Workman is our superintendent.

Floyd Williamson is building an addition to his store. A READER.

TO HELP YOU SMILE.

Real Consideration—"Yassuh, mah Sambo am a perfect gemmum, even if we all do get into a spat now an agin. Yassuh, he nevah hits me where it shows."—The Orange Owl.

Doing Her Best—"Mary, were you entertaining a man in the kitchen last night?"

"That's for him to say, mum. I was doing my best with the materials I could find."—Liverpool Mercury.

Considerate—"Would you mind driving a little slower, old man?"

"Not getting scared, are you?"

"Oh, no, nothing like that, but I'd hate to take an unfair advantage of my life insurance company."—New York Sun.

Immaterial.—The office stenographer was mentally upset over her inability to spell "graphic." "How do you spell graphic, with one 'f' or two?" she asked. "If you are going to use any," the genial boss replied, "you might as well use two."—The Veteran Magazine.

Doubly Significant.—Small boys often ask embarrassing questions. A preacher was addressing the Sunday school and explaining the significance of white. "Why," he asked, "does a bride desire to be clothed in white at her marriage?" As no one answered, he went on, "Because white stands for joy, and the wedding day is the most joyous occasion in a woman's life." Immediately a little fellow piped up, "Please, sir, why do the men all wear black?"—The Veteran Magazine.

Card of Thanks.

Mr. Editor:—I desire to thank the friends and neighbors most heartily in this manner for their cooperation during the illness and death of my late husband, who escaped from me by the hand of death last Saturday. To my friends and all who contributed toward making the last minutes comfortable and the funeral a success I desire to remember most kindly, hoping that these few lines will find them enjoying the same blessing. I have also a good milch cow and a roan gelding horse eight years old which I will sell cheap. God moves in a mysterious way His wonders to perform. He plants His footsteps on the sea and rides upon the storm.—Arkansas Archangel.

A Long Way to Go.—Colored Recruit—"Say, sahjent, lucidate to me de significance of dis heah numbah which 'pears on mah loomnum lavileah."

Old-Timer—"Boy, listen to knowledge. Dat's yo' heavenly billet numbah in case de ole bony gent wild de crooked razor accidentally whittches your soul from your gaiters."

Entered College 41 Years Ago; There Yet

New York, Jan. 16.—Forty-one years ago, William Cullen Bryant Kemp became a student at Columbia University. Today he is still a student, and hasn't missed a semester.

Having studied everything worth while and exhausted all of the "ologies," student Kemp, who is over fifty years old, is spending his time this year learning all about the paleogeographic development of North America. He has many degrees, including a "D. P. M." (doctor of perpetual motion) conferred by his fellow students.

Some say that William wouldn't study when a boy, so that a wise uncle left a will providing for him as long as he was a regularly enrolled university student.

Student Kemp won't talk, only to say: "The more you learn, the more you know."

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

A COLUMN DEDICATED TO TIRED MOTHERS AS THEY JOIN THE HOME CIRCLE AT EVENING TIDE.

Twilight.

Sara Tearsdale.

Alone as aged kings, Wearing like them the purple, The mountains ring the mesa Crowned with a dusky light; Many a time I watched

That coming on of darkness Till stars burned through the heavens Intolerably bright.

It was not long I lived there, But I became a woman Under those vehement stars, For it was there I heard

For the first time my spirit Forging an iron rule for me, As though with slow cold hammers Beating out word for word.

"Take love when love is given, But never think to find it A sure escape from sorrow

Or a complete repose; Only yourself can heal you, Only yourself can lead you Up the hard road to heaven

That ends where no one knows."

Most of the older citizens are pretty well acquainted with the boy who made such a wonderful start in life and by the time he was eighteen everyone was predicting wonderful things for him. But something seemed to happen, or rather nothing happened. He slowed down considerably. He tried for one or two worth while things and failed. Everyone said, "Oh well that's just a bit of hard luck, he'll get there the next time." But he didn't and finally he stopped trying and settled down to some more or less mediocre position.

Then there was the silent young man who had so little to say, whom everyone considered quite dull and about whom they used to say, "Poor John! He's so stupid. His mother will have him on her hands as long as she lives."

But, for some unknown reason he seemed to get a good position and, much to every one's surprise, he kept it. He kept climbing until he finally acquired the presidency of the X. Y. Z. on the A. B. C. R. R. or something else commanding a salary of about seventy-five thousand a year.

Now just exactly what happened in the cases of those two boys to make their careers terminate so differently and so far from the way people expected. Probably the older people living in the town had more to do with it than they suspected. In the case of the first boy they did not allow him time to test his own powers but made him believe he was made for great things. He soon had so much confidence in himself that he decided he could live on his reputation and he quit trying. Some people can and do that but not until their reputation is fairly well established.

In the case of the second boy he was either conscious of his own powers and determined to show the world that he had them or in his careful plodding way he stumbled on his ability and began steadily climbing.

It is a pretty good idea when youngsters start out not to predict their future for they are always more or less certain to be influenced by your predictions and you may be doing a lot of harm.

Now is the time when New Year's resolutions are usually on the wane. It seems rather a shame that people take them so lightly and that children are taught to consider them so. Most of us make such trivial resolutions and break them almost as soon as they are made. Then when we find that there is some real fault that we must overcome and we resolve to do so we find our will power weakened because we gave in to temptation so many times before. It would be better never to make a resolution than to make so many and break them all. It can scarcely be said to be a case of "the spirit being willing but the flesh is weak." It's more a case of the mind being weak.

Happily indeed should be the man who strikes a medium in his relationship with money. Some people are never happy until they have money and once they get it they are not happy until it is spent.

Others are not happy until they have amassed a vast fortune and then every penny they have to spend makes them miserable.

The only way to treat money is as your servant. Never allow the desire for it to gain such a grip on you that it becomes your master.

Nest Building Time

LAURA R. MONTGOMERY

Doris looked anxiously at the cheap alarm-clock as she shrugged into the thin jacket. "Wonder," she blushed a little as she calculated the time required to walk to the park. "If Dick will be waiting?"

Doris had felt much more at home in the crowded city since her chance meeting with her old friend, Dick had left the village years before she had taken her courage in her hand, and made the plunge, and she felt sure that he had already gained success, although he did not mention it.

He dressed very well and had a competent, up-to-the-minute air of affluence. She recklessly squeezed the package of sandwiches she had made from the remnants of her hurried breakfast cooked over the gas-flame so that she could fit it into her old coat. She would have hated to have had Dick guess that she carried her luncheon.

"Oh, Miss Weeks," the landlady's voice hailed her as she opened the front door, "here's a letter I forgot to give you last night, must have come while you were away."

Doris had been home since the previous Wednesday. Her mother had been ill and the family had wired her, but the illness had been less serious than they had feared, and Doris had returned to the city Sunday night to be in readiness for her work Monday morning.

Taking the letter she inserted her thumb under the flap as she went down the tall steps of the dingy, old-fashioned house. The envelope bore the name of Gribby & Son, and her heart pounded as she read it; that was the firm that employed her. "They will keep me a week longer to give me time to look about for something else," she murmured, gloomily, "and every firm is cutting down expenses and laying off people."

At the entrance to the park she stopped doubtfully. "I'd hate to have him know I've lost my job," she re-lected, but she walked on again as she saw the familiar gray overcoat hurrying toward her.

"Hello, Doris, in a big hurry?" he greeted.

She shook her head.

"Well, I'm not. I've thrown up my job. I only came out here on the chance of seeing you. Dad wants me back in Franklin, and I'm going. There isn't anything to this city life; every cent goes out for living, and that living is a mighty dreary affair. Dull back room in a boarding house, with cold, scrappy meals. Gee, I'll be glad to taste some 'real food' again. Remember those lemon layer-cakes you used to make? All thick with white icing on top?"

"But I thought you were such a success," she looked significantly at his well-made clothes and shining shoes.

"I'll do better back home, but—be patient and studied her downcast face. "I've been thinking of going back for some time, but when I found you here in town I kinda hated to go."

Absently Dick dropped down on a bench beside her and he cleared his throat nervously.

"You see," he went on, "you wear such awfully good clothes and look so spiffy that it makes a fellow afraid to say anything. You must be earning a lot to pay your way and buy those clothes." Although the day was crisp his face was damp with perspiration, and he tugged at his collar as though it strangled him.

Doris did not feel the chill winter air. In her heart had sprung a curious delicious warmth. She knew now why she had awakened with such a gay seat for each workday; had hurried over the inadequate scramble that she named breakfast; it was so she could reach the park in time for the daily chat before going on to work.

And Dick, also, had been intrigued by the inconsequent chatter in the wide avenue of the windy park where the trees stretched bare, tangled branches above them and sunshine made gay patches between the pavement and their frozen benches. A fat sparrow alighted near them and to her ill she carried a bit of string.

Dick colored furiously. "See there, that sparrow thinks it's nest-building time. She is a bit ahead of the season, but it's a good idea. Would you be satisfied to live back in Franklin? I'm going in partners with Dad."

"I'm thinking of going back," her words came slowly and with embarrassment.

Dick stood up very straight. "Is it Fred Miller? I thought that—that is, oh, of course, it is none of my business," he ended coldly.

The brightness faded from the day, the chill of the winter and the lost job suddenly overwhelmed her. How had she so misunderstood him? "I have not seen Fred Miller for over a year. I must be getting on. I'll be—she stopped; she could scarcely be late. Gribby's would not want to see her again."

"Don't let me keep you," his miserable young voice fell dully upon her ears. "Of course you'll want to marry a city man."

She had started to rise when the magical word, "marry," stunned her with its unexpected entrance into their conversation.

She looked up at him, but he was staring at some late, shriveled leaves that were making ghostly progress over the frozen grass. She wished ardently that he would go on and propose properly, but, instead, he stood dejectedly and in silence. She could scarcely snatch at the magical word and urge him on, but all the time her heart ached with loneliness. She wanted to be back home where the houses were familiar faces instead of the bleak city wilderness of bricks and granite.

Jumping up blindly because of the unwelcome tears that had suddenly blurred her vision she held out her hand in its much-mended glove. "Well, good—"

At that inopportune moment her muff slipped and fell to the ground. She made a retrieving gesture toward it, and stepped backward in dismay. The soft, round package that she had mercilessly squeezed into the muffs interior had fallen out, and the stale bread sandwich, spread with lumpy butter because of the almost freezing temperature of her room, lay exposed for criticism.

"Why, Doris! Do you carry your luncheon? Then you would be willing to save and—"

He had grasped both her hands and looked directly into her misty eyes. "Marry a poor man," she finished dominantly.

QUEEN MAY HAVE USED IT

Subterranean Passage Discovered in English Town Recalls Fate of Mary Queen of Scots.

During excavations that were being made at Sheffield, England, an underground passage was discovered on the south side of the town. There is a tradition that there was such a passage from the castle to Sheffield manor house during the time that Mary Queen of Scots was prisoner there, and the passage discovered would answer to that description.

During the time of the duke of Norfolk's trial the queen was guarded and allowed but little freedom. Sir Ralph Sadler had taken the place of the earl of Shrewsbury as custodian of the woman who was the chief asset in the political-religious game that was being played for the throne of England.

"Sir Ralph lets us look through the windows at this time, and it is to his credit that during the time he had to guard the woman, who would have revived the old form of religion, and crushed the new movement of Protestantism, he showed tact and sympathy."

"All the last week the queen did not once look out of her chamber, hearing that the duke stood upon his arraignment and trial, and being troubled by all likelihood by a guilty conscience and fear, to hear of such news as she hath now received. And my presence is such a trouble to her that unless she come out of her chamber I have not little at her, and for my part I have not since I come hither so behaved myself toward her as might justly give her occasion to have any such mislike to me."—Christian Science Monitor.

Engineers and Pioneer Infantry.

In the field, the engineers are primarily builders; when they become fighters it is more or less the result of circumstances. They are trained for the construction of permanent works, and their organization includes such special units as railroad builders, forestiers, searchlight operators, and miners. The pioneer infantrymen, on the other hand, are primarily fighters with special training for makeshift engineering work, such as the construction of temporary bridges, fortifications and roads. But their primary work is to hold sectors as any other infantry. Their engineering training is intended to serve the army in emergencies only.

Spreading Knowledge.

The great men of culture are those who have had a passion for diffusing, for making prevail, for carrying on one end of society to the other, the best knowledge, the best ideas of their time; who have labored to divest knowledge of all that was harsh, uncouth, difficult, abstract, professional, exclusive; to humanize it, to make it efficient outside the clique of the cultivated and learned, yet still remaining the best knowledge and thought of the time, and a true source, therefore, of sweetness and light.—Matthew Arnold.

HICKSVILLE

Tuesday, the 10th of this month, marked the closing scene of the best taught school at this place that we have had for a number of years with J. H. Dalton as teacher. The pupils have made wonderful progress in their studies under the efficient instructions of their able and experienced teacher, who never stops until he feels sure that the student thoroughly understands the topic that is being discussed. It is with regret that we learn that this will probably be Mr. Dalton's last school as he is retiring from the profession which he has served so faithfully. This being the twenty-seventh school he has taught in this county. It certainly is a great loss to the profession as well as the educational development of the county.

Aside from being an excellent teacher Mr. Dalton is a man of strong character, possessing sterling qualities. A large crowd was present including patrons of the school as well as visitors from other districts and all received a hearty welcome and a treat. The program was brief but all seemed to enjoy themselves.

Thomas Holbrook has sold his farm here and bought a farm on Irish creek. We are sorry to lose Mr. Holbrook and his family from our midst as they are good neighbors.

Harrison Large of Irish creek has bought a farm here and moved in. We are glad to have Mr. Large and family with us.

John W. Holbrook, who has been very ill for some time, is much improved.

A. L. Hicks, traveling salesman for an acetylene lighting company made a business trip to Frankfort last week.

Rube Adams after a brief visit to his family has returned to West Virginia where he has employment.

A. L. Hicks has purchased from G. Hays his entire mill and plant and has employed Will Holbrook, Jr., who will operate the same.

A READER.

SALLIE.

IN MEMORY—

(Composed by Mrs. Sophia G. Savage)

Once upon this tearful earth
Our darling sister walked
And our hearts were filled with gladness

When sweetly she talked
Of Heaven and her blessed Savior
And loved ones gone before
And asked her friends around her
To meet her on Heaven's shore
We know that from us she has gone
To her happy home on high
And one by one we'll meet her
In the sweet bye and bye
We shall always miss her presence
But there's a happy thought to cherish
That we'll meet our missing loved one

Where sweet flowers never perish
So we'll hope and pray to meet her
When this weary life is past
And enjoy the heavenly pleasure
That forever more will last.

Rev. Billy Sunday, evangelist, will hold a meeting in Charleston, W. Va. in February. Special trains will probably be run from Huntington on stated days.

NO FICTION STRANGER THAN THIS

This is Miss Mary Louder Baker, society girl of Chicago and fiancée, Allister McCormick. Miss Baker has just called off her wedding for the second time, both at the last moment. The other night the chère was filled with guests, the caterers were laying out the wedding table, tens of thousands of dollars' worth of presents were in the house when Mary sent word that she wouldn't marry just now. McCormick says he'll go travelling for a while.

The Scramble for U. S. Appointments in W. Va.

Charleston, W. Va., January 14.—The action of Senators Howard Sutherland and Davis Elkins this week in jointly recommending the appointment of Elliott Northcott, of Huntington, to be United States Attorney for the Southern District, without making any recommendation for the United States Marshalship, has led to the impression among politicians that the Senators are experiencing difficulty in agreeing on a candidate for the Marshalship.

No surprise was occasioned by the recommendation of Mr. Northcott, nor by that of Louis Buchwald, of Wheeling, for the Marshalship of the Northern District, also recently made, as these appointments virtually were agreed on several months ago.

The office of Marshal for the Southern District, however, has been the objective of an open fight. With a number of active and receptive candidates ready to take the post, three candidates, regarded at one time as being probably the strongest contenders, are Greenway Hatfield, of Williamson; Segel Workman, of Boone county, and Frank Tyree, of Huntington. They still are mentioned prominently in connection with the office, but recent developments in Washington and the delay of the Senators in making any recommendation are interpreted in certain quarters as being possible indications of the selection of a "dark horse."

Should the plum finally fall into the lap of Ira Harshbarger, of Huntington, it would not surprise those who have been studying the situation.

While Mr. Hatfield at one time was an active aspirant for the place, reports from Washington several weeks ago said he had received little encouragement and virtually had withdrawn from the race. His chances suffered according to these reports, from the fact that he is a brother of former Governor Henry D. Hatfield, a reputed aspirant to the seat in the Senate now held by Senator Sutherland. The Senator, it was said, after failing to receive any convincing signs that his endorsement of Greenway Hatfield would check the reported budding senatorial aspirations of the latter's brother, virtually eliminated him from consideration.

While Mr. Tyree has been mentioned frequently for the Marshalship, it is understood that there is considerable opposition to his appointment. Mr. Harshbarger, his uncle, was in Washington this week in the interest, it was reported, of his nephew's candidacy, but politicians, reading between the lines, saw in the visit and the general circumstances surrounding the contest a possibility that Mr. Harshbarger himself might be under serious consideration for the office. It is believed that the contest now is between Mr. Harshbarger and Mr. Workman.
